

TRACK 4 - SLICE OF ASS [1m57s]

CHRIS MARTIN

Heres what I got from the track.

A government experiment in remote viewing, were they transferred cells and serotonin receptors to a man, from the cerebral cortex of a wolf that had been given LSD.

The way this man remote views is not the conventional way from above. He dry swims on the ground to move about through the streets and terrain. To accelerate his speed of remote viewing he picks flowers when out of the state. The more he picks the faster he views.

Quick summary of shoot

Slow mo ECU guy picking a flower cut to guy flat on belly with concealed skate board below, dry swimming and moving through the streets. (Belfast 8am Sun morning)
Camera tracking backwards (wheelchair) in front of him. Perspective of about 35 Deg. (this will be shown x4 speed).
Slow mo ECU guy picking a flower. This time with black contact lenses in, smiling with sharpened teeth.
Cut to guy flat on belly as before (x8 speed) Sequence continues to x16 speed.
Ends with man dropping flowers into a fish tank with plastic dolls heads in it.

REQUIRED:

A bespoke flatbed trolley with wheels ; a vehicle to tow a bespoke flatbed trolley with wheels OR a vehicle with a flatbed bit welded to it; man; costume for man; black contact lenses; pointed fangs; flowers & petals; plastic dolls heads; clearance for street driving at early hours of morning

A conceptual diagram of the flatbed & towing setup will help to realise this concept.

One camera shoot. One day shoot.