

TRACK 6 - SPACED OUT [5m03s]

BRENDAN MULLIN

A couple have no children, and may well never be able to. One day a baby literally falls out of the sky, landing beside the couple whilst they are out for a walk, and they are blessed with a child. The fact that this baby is actually a green alien makes no difference whatsoever, and they raise the alien like it was their own flesh & blood. The video goes through their life together as a family, with friends and family playing along like its all perfectly normal. Video footage of life events like the christening, the first day at school, the family holidays, the graduation etc are all documented as the alien & parents grow older.

REQUIRED:

A couple - maybe needing to get progressively older with makeup; an alien in various stages of growth - so perhaps several different ages of people with alien heads on them - or perhaps it's one size throughout, and the school uniform is too small, and the christening is very awkward; the various locations for the life events - whatever number there happen to be; props or dressing for each location/event

Probably a two day shoot. One camera shoot.
